Strategic Response to CrisisDescription

Knowing what sequence of crisis intervention processes to use for which individuals or groups, at what times, and under what circumstances is crucial to all effective early intervention programs. The course will present essential information for the assessment of both crisis situations and the effects of critical incidents on people involved in those situations. Learn to create an effective plan of action to assist those in crisis and complete a series of exercises designed to sharpen assessment and crisis planning skills. Strategic planning and tactical decision making are emphasized, as are rationales for choosing one set of crisis intervention processes over another.

This course builds confidence that crisis interventionists will make the right choices of interventions for the populations they are assisting under specific circumstances. This course requires previous training and experience. ICISF's "Group Crisis Intervention" and "Assisting Individuals in Crisis" (formerly Individual Crisis Intervention and Peer Support) should be viewed as prerequisites.

Primary AudiencePrerequisites

Group Crisis Intervention, Assisting Individuals in Crisis

Emotional & Spiritual Care in Disaster Operations

Description

The purpose of this advanced level course is to enhance the skills of clergy, chaplains, mental health professionals, and trained crisis responders to provide effective emotional and spiritual care (ESC) to meet the disaster-related needs of disaster responders and disaster affected families and individuals within disaster operations. This course builds on the crisis intervention principles taught in the Critical Incident Stress Management (CISM) core courses to effectively integrate these principles within ESC teams for appropriate care throughout the disaster continuum from the immediate to long-term recovery process. This course examines the unique ministry The Salvation Army offers during a disaster event and identifies appropriate spiritual care support techniques for traumatized disaster survivor.

Strategic Response to Crisis

Description

Knowing what sequence of crisis intervention processes to use for which individuals or groups, at what times, and under what circumstances is crucial to all effective early intervention programs. The course will present essential information for the assessment of both crisis situations and the effects of critical incidents on people involved in those situations. Learn to create an effective plan of action to assist those in crisis and complete a series of exercises designed to sharpen assessment and crisis planning skills. Strategic planning and tactical decision making are emphasized, as are rationales for choosing one set of crisis intervention processes over another.

This course builds confidence that crisis interventionists will make the right choices of interventions for the populations they are assisting under specific circumstances. This course requires previous training and experience. ICISF's "Group Crisis Intervention" and "Assisting Individuals in Crisis" (formerly Individual Crisis Intervention and Peer Support) should be viewed as prerequisites.

Local Community Response

Description

Over the past few years, there has been an extreme interest in local community involvement. Superstorm Sandy provided opportunity for dozens of community groups and churches to spring into action to aid their respective communities. Although these efforts are well intentioned and have produced some excellent outcomes, there is still work to be done to educate and coordinate these efforts into a much more effective force.

The goal in providing this information is to educate community organizations on how to work with The Salvation Army and with emergency management. Some of the material is written from the perspective of The Salvation Army's work in collaborating with other churches, agencies and neighborhood groups to serve those impacted by emergencies of all kinds.

Primary Audience

The Local Community Response Course has two versions; one is a generic, multi agency approach which is ideal when training with our partners and community organizations and churches. The other is a more TSA centric version which can be used to provide orientation for potential new volunteers.

Applications of Emotional and Spiritual Care

Description

The Applications of Emotional and Spiritual Care course might best be described as the final course in the Eastern Territories Disaster Chaplaincy certification. It is the final course in the series which includes Foundations of ESC and Essentials of ESC.

Also, included as part of the two day course is time for reflection to strengthen your inner depth and power, as we consider thoughts, attitudes, biases and various beliefs that may impact your capacity to serve in an advanced ESC role.

Primary Audience

Within the material assembled there is a great deal of theoretical and practical information that will provide knowledge and understanding needed to perform in the field. That information is balanced by exercises, role plays and group discussion to enhance the participants level of experience, which in turn should create a greater sense of confidence and poise when interacting with those in need.
